Record Breaking Sale of Thoroughbreds.

The best public sale of thoroughbreds ever held in Kentucky took place Tuesday at Wilson's Horsemen's Headquarters in Lexington. The prices mark a new record, as the highest price ever paid before at public auction in Kentucky for a brood mare was $10,000 for Vitorine. Two broodmares were sold Tuesday, one for $10,000 and one for $12,000.

Capt. W. Harry Brown, who became the master of the famous Senorita Stud established in Fayette county by his brother, the late Captain S. S. Brown, of Pittsburg, bought Audience, an untried brood mare, for $12,000. He also paid $8,000 for the sixteen year-old Reckon, $5,000 for Performance, $5,500 for Run of Luck, $4,000 for Ascot Belle, $2,700 for the twenty-one-year-old Senorita. All of the mares named were consigned to the sale by the estate of the late Captain Brown. Harry Payne Whitney, of New York, paid $10,000 for Sallie of Navarre, outbidding Captain Brown $500 to get the mare.

The most sensational sale of the day, however, was that of Garry Hermann. This handsome son of Imp. Esher and Silk Gown by Longfellow, was purchased by Capt. W. Harry Brown for $14,000.

Of the estate of the late S. S. Brown there were twenty-five head offered for sale. They brought a total of $84,200, or an average of $3,500 a head.

The average of the day sale amounted to $890 a head. During the day there were sold 121 head that went for $125,790. During the night sale there were fifty-seven head of yearlings sold, bringing a total of $8,610.

One hundred and eighty-four head of stallions, brood mares, yearlings and weanlings went under the hammer Wednesday for a total of $25,375. Orimar, a son of Sir Dixon and Imp. Prairie Queen, consigned by J. T. Stewart, of Amsterdam, N. Y., was bought by Martin Doyle, of Bourbon county for $200. This good horse is one of the few stallions in America who have been retired to the stud with a mile in 1:33 to his credit.

STOCK, CROP, &c.

—Good meat hogs are selling at from 52 to 6 cents.

—Henry S. Caywood sold to Wm. Squires, of Little Rock, 35 Polled-Angus heifers, average weight 725 pounds, at 34 cents.

—Clay & Ellis sold their 20,000 pound crop of tobacco Wednesday to J. C. Ellis, for the American Tobacco Co., at 13 cents.

—Auctioneer A. T. Forsyth sold Monday in Winchester for J. C. Scobee, 89 acres of land, lying near Montgomery line, to D. B. Hampton, at $58 per acre; 250 acres of same, to Forrest Shouse at $73 per acre; 112 acres to R. P. Scobee at $68.25 per acre.

—R. B. Hutchcraft, of this city, bought Monday at Winchester court forty-seven head of 900 pound feeding cattle at from $3.20 to $3.35. Henry S. Caywood, of North Middletown, bought forty 1,050 pound feeding cattle at $3.75. Mann & Clark bought three mare mules for $185 per head. The Winchester Democrat says: "Only a fair crowd in town and not much attention paid to the stock yards. It seemed to be an off day and many cattle were left unsold. The market showed some pretty good cattle but none of them brought as much as four cents."

The Bourbon Farmer's Institute.

The meeting of the Bourbon County Farmers' Institute, under the auspices of the State Board of Agriculture, for past two days was a success, although only a few of our farmers being present yesterday.

The meeting was called to order at 10 o'clock, Wednesday morning in the County Court room, with an attendance of nearly 100 farmers. Hon. A. S. Thompson, secretary of the Institute, acted as chairman of the meeting, and introduced Mr. Chas. McIntyre, of Ohio, who spoke on "Soil Fertility." J. P. Davis, of Sheridan, Ind., then discussed "The Selection of Seed Corn." Mr. C. M. Hanna, of Shelbyville, then gave a talk on "Good Roads," and on "Cultivation and Marketing of Burley Tobacco." Thursday being Thanksgiving Day, only a few farmers were present. Those present however heard addresses from Messrs. Davis, McIntyre and Strode on "Preparing the Seed Bed," "Growing Corn," "Cattle Feeding," "Some Points on Wheat Culture," "Clover, its Importance, and How We Handle It," "Sheep Husbandry," and "Bluegrass Pastures." The speakers showed themselves to be thorough farmers, and the Bourbon farmers who attended the Institute received much valuable information.

Accidentally Kills His Daughter.

Deputy Sheriff Flint Davis, of Breathitt county, accidentally shot and killed his eight-year-old daughter Friday morning. He was loading his pistol and was not aware that his daughter was near, when it was accidentally discharged inflicting a fatal wound from which she died within a few hours. This is the second violent death in his family within the last year, as a grown daughter was burned to death last fall.

The Negro Bluff Didn't Work.

The effects of the colored citizens of Chicago to prevent Senator Tillman from delivering an address in Chicago Tuesday night, because the position he assumed to the negro race were unsuccessful. His lecture was to have been on "The Annexation of Cuba," for a Chicago hospital fund, and under the auspices of a number of ladies of that city. The negro bluff didn't work with Senator Tillman, and in opening his speech he paid his respects to Mayor Dunne, whom he said was a creature of political hour.

"I have been advertised to discuss the annexation of Cuba," continued Mr. Tillman, "but in view of the fact that I could not discuss that subject without discussing the race question, I am going to go at the matter hammer and tongs, straightforward like a man. Therefore I shall discuss the race problem pure and simple from an American standpoint and not from a Cuban standpoint."

The fearless Senator then told them a few things about the race question that they never heard before, and the beauty about it was that it was all the truth.

It has come to a pretty pass in this free country that negroes have to dictate to United States Senator as to what his subject is to be for a lecture. The best solution of the question is to ship every cursed one of them back to Africa, accompanied by the white Northern politicians, and then burn the ships after landing them in the country where they belong.

A Disgusting Boast.

The Courier-Journal says editorially that the daughter of a New York multimillionaire publicly stated the other day that she spent $200,000 a year on dress. She said it boastfully, dwelt upon the thought that she would never wear "imitation" stuff, and in other ways manifested an unwholesome pride and materialistic snobbery which not only rendered her absurd, but which was sufficient to disgust all persons of common sense, of heart and of human feeling.

The rich woman should be ashamed of her extravagance, not boastful. Her body may be resplendent in fine raiment, but there is something lacking in her spiritual nature. The pomps and vanities of the world, apparently interest her more than good deeds, the sufferings of the poor, or the development of her higher self. A portion only of the vast sum she squanders could help many a starving mouth.

There is only one gratifying consideration in the case of this New York spendthrift and all others of her kind, and this is the fact, at any rate, she is turning money loose. She is putting it into circulation. This is much better, after all, than to hoard it away. It may be that eventually she will manage to get rid of the entire fortune—then who would there be to pity her.

A New Trust.

The Beet Sugar Trust—The Great Western Sugar Company—thinks it has a cinch on the production of denatured alcohol from the waste pulp of the sugar beet, after the available sugar has been extracted. A fight between the Whisky Trust and the Sugar Trust to control the market of denatured alcohol would give us cheap alcohol for fuel and light for a time, at least until the trusts combined. But if the Beet Sugar trust is successful in thus disposing of its waste product, what becomes of the argument that the farmers are to find a market for grain which will not pass inspection? Under Republican legislation it always seems to turn out that the farmers gets the worst end of it and the trusts come out on top.

San Francisco's Shame.

It is most unfortunate for San Francisco that in the hour when it needs honest men, its finds so many of its officials dishonest. Struggling to rise from ruins and ashes, it discovers that assistance rendered by the outside world is in a measure subjected to graft; and that labor itself is inspired more by division of spoil, than by contributing to a resurrected city. San Francisco must certainly feel the situation most keenly.

The mayor and other officials of that city are under indictment for crimes that shock the whole country—crimes bad enough in themselves, but infinitely worse under the conditions under which they were committed. And what is still more deplorable these indicted officials have the support of a large number of citizens who have profited by their dishonesty and corruption.

The Right Kind of Man Found.

A New York man left $20,000 to be paid to his wife when she marries again. That's the kind of man the women have been waiting for ever since civilization began and this is the first time he has shown up. Many men have left fortunes to their wives on condition that they remained widows, but never to encourage them to remarry. Now start a guessing contest as to how long it will be before the newly made widow puts herself in shape to claim the $20,000 legacy.

Worthy of the Dark Ages.

The people of Prussia ate 1,568 dogs and 81,312 horses last year and yet their alleged statesmen insist on laws excluding American meat products from the country. Good American steaks and chops would seem to be more appetizing than dog meat and played out street car horses, but as the former are not to be obtained they are compelled to use the inferior food. Here is a sample of protection run mad, of which we have also a great deal in this country. Manifestly any policy that makes the food of the people higher by shutting out competition, is worthy only of the dark ages.

Thanksgiving all the Year.

Some one has wisely said: "How it would revolutionize life if we could agree to have one day a year for mourning and complaining, for letting out the floods of pent-up annoyances and grudges and slights, and to be thankful the rest of the time! How much better than to try to be thankful one day by law and grumble for three hundred and sixty-four. Let today sound a thankful note to ring through the year."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address:

ORIENTAL CLUBS.

Why Almost Any Society For Any Purpose Can Succeed.

The oriental is passionately fond of club life, and the smaller the degree of personal liberty he enjoys in ordinary life the more intense is his enjoyment of membership in some brotherhood. It does not make very much difference what the nature of the club may be; it is the mere joy of club life. Irrespective of object or principle, that appeals to him. Having once tasted this joy, he will do much rather than forego a continuance of it. Oriental society is so constituted that the family or clan is the social unit and not the individual. A man cannot be alone in his punishments, for they are also visited in greater or less degree upon his relatives as well. He cannot enjoy or suffer alone. Now, a club or society is a much smaller organization than society as a whole, and the individual forms a correspondingly larger fraction of it. This is an immense stimulus to self esteem. The man becomes somebody. This explains why almost any society, irrespective of its object, can instantly gather a numerous and enthusiastic constituency. Any man with a little tact could go out on the streets of Seoul and in twenty-four hours establish a society for the cultivation of mushrooms on thatched roofs, with president, vice president, secretary, treasurer and executive committee complete and a membership list as long as a piece of string, if not longer. Why? Simply because membership in "any old" society does just a little to lift a man out of the humdrum of life. —Korea News.

THE CLIMBING PERCH.

An East Indian Fish That Travels Over the Land.

As a rule, fish come out of the water only at the end of a line or by other involuntary process, but the climbing perch of the East Indies thinks nothing of leaving a pool with which it is not satisfied and starting overland in search of one more to its taste.

This usually happens as a result of the evaporation of a pool in the extremely dry season. When the fish decide that the water in the particular pool formed during the rainy season is in danger of drying out completely they make all preparations for moving and late at night or early in the morning deliberately climb the banks and start off in search of some more commodious pool or stream not in danger of going dry. When the journey is made at the hour it usually is the fish are favored by the heavy dew which lies on the grass, but if an emergency arises they will boldly strike out at noontime along the dusty road.

They travel by means of the strong bony fins which are full of sharp spines, like those of the common perch. They have a receptacle in which they carry water with them to moisten their gills. It is said that they will live several days out of water, and with the assistance of the dew laden grass the fish that starts in search of a satisfactory pool or stream is practically sure of living until it finds it. —Brockton Times.

Origin of "Jesus."

The members of the Society of Jesus appear first to have been given their familiar short name, "Jesus," by none other than Calvin. Pope Sixtus V. attempted to change their name from "Society of Jesus" to "Society of Ignatius," after their founder, Ignatius Loyola, but the attempt miscarried, and the Jesuits have never become "Ignatians," after the model of the Franciscans, Dominicans and Benedictines, although their enemies in Spain used to call them "Iniglesias" (Inigo being the Spanish original of Loyola's Christian name). In France after their expulsion in 1765 those who ventured to remain temporarily called themselves "Fathers of the Faith," or "Clerks of the Sacred Heart."—London Chronicle.

The Daytime Nap.

Prolonged "forty winks" during the day are severely condemned by many doctors on the ground that they affect one's regular sleep. Scientists have found that in the ordinary course in the human being there is the greatest vitality between 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. and the least between 2 o'clock and 6 o'clock in the morning. Long sleeps during the day interfere with this order of nature, sometimes causing headache. The nap of forty winks, but only forty, proves refreshing to many because it is too short to have any injurious consequences.

Magnanimity.

Magnanimity is never coupled with weakness. The large soul that embraces all mankind in love and sympathy, that is tender, compassionate and generous, is also strong, resolute and firm whenever principle, justice and truth are concerned. There is no cruelty like that of weakness; there is no power and courage and energy like those of true magnanimity.

Chinese Pirates.

Piracy is no new thing in the waters around Hongkong. As long ago as the thirteenth century the island of Hongkong was a piratical stronghold, and for centuries the Chinese government was unable to drive the sea robbers out. All craft passing what is now Hongkong harbor were compelled to pay tribute. The higher elevations of the island served as lookout stations, and no boat that approached was permitted to leave until it had paid toll.

Anxiety does not empty tomorrow of its sorrow; it empties today of its strength.—Maclaren.

GAS AND GASOLINE ENGINES

Last longer and give better service than any engine on the market. Why? Because only the best material and workmanship that money can buy are used in their construction. They are the most accessible, simplest and easiest to operate of any engine sold today.

A few of the superior points are: The governor, with which you can arrange the speed while running. Economy of fuel, due to the construction of the valves and positive action of the governor. The igniter, which makes a spark one-half inch long: will start the engine on the first turn and is guaranteed not to foul. The balance weights on the crank shaft instead of on the fly wheels, which insure steady running and minimum of wear on the bearings. The lubricating system, and lots of others that we will tell you about if you will just give us a chance. We have samples on the floor and can give you a demonstration any time.

We also carry in stock a full line of Belle City and Ross Feed Cutters, the best of their kind. Kemp Manure Spreaders, Vehicles, Wagons, Implements, Seeds, Coal, Salt, etc. You need our goods and we need your money. Give us a call.

Christmas Presents

From Our Art Department.

A handsome picture suitably framed—doesn't this solve at least one Christmas problem for you?

Our Christmas showing won't be larger than it is now, and we are taking orders every day for Christmas delivery.

Think it over and you will come to the conclusion that it is wise to buy now.

have suffered losses. The recovery from the war last year found both countries in need of supplies of all kinds, and as a result American trade was benefited. The present showing is better than for any year previous to 1905, so that there is cause for congratulation even in the face of the figures.

Uncle Sam's pocketbook is much larger this year than last, and Treasury officials are looking forward to an immense surplus fund when the fiscal year ends next June. At this time last year the government faced a deficit of $14,500,000, but when the books were balanced this week it was found that there is the snug sum of $15,000,000 reposing as a surplus in the Treasury strong box. One-third of this amount having been added in the first twenty days of this month. In the face of these facts there is reason to believe that the coming Congress will be more liberal in its appropriations for public works. Chief among these is the Rivers and Harbors bill, which for the last ten years has carried a ridiculously small amount. It is the hope of those who believe in the development of the natural resources of the country, that the appropriation for this work will be $50,000,000 annually for the next ten years. The condition of commerce, which has grown so much more rapidly than transportation facilities, demands that attention be turned to developing the natural channels of trade that have been neglected for a half century. The railroads for the last three years have been helpless in the great tide of traffic that is growing so rapidly. With rivers deepened and widened and ports prepared to permit of the operation of fleets of swift vessels and capacious barges, the transportation problem would be solved, freight rates would be greatly decreased and business all over the country would take on an added impetus. The question will be forced on the attention of the Federal government next month, when the National Rivers and Harbors Congress holds its convention here December 6 and 7.

Dr. Wiley's "poison squad" is coming in for severe criticism this week because of the death of one of its former members. Robert Vance Freeman, twenty-three years old and formerly an employee of the Department of Agriculture, is the victim of the adulterated food fed him in the interest of science, according to his mother. Three years ago Dr. Wiley undertook experiments to determine the effects of borax and boric acid on the human system, and Freeman was one of the first to volunteer for the "squad." His mother declares the lad, although strong and hearty when he joined the "squad," quickly succumbed to the effects of the drugs and before the six-months' test was completed he was discharged. Then, she says, he went West in an effort to regain his health, but without result. The matter has occasioned a small scandal.

Fined $18,000.

A fine of $18,000 was imposed on the American Sugar Refining Company by Judge Hough in the United States Circuit Court, at New York, for accepting rebates from the New York Central Railroad Company. The company was allowed sixty days to prepare an appeal. The rebates amounted to $26,000.

Declines to Vacate Bench.

In the $50,000 libel damage case filed in the Anderson Circuit Court by Noel Gaines against W. P. Walton, editor of the Kentucky State Journal and Percy Haley, Judge Frank Peak refused to vacate the bench upon request of the defendants. Affidavits were filed charging that by reason of the position he took in the recent political campaign and the facts growing out of the same, his relation to the two defendants is such that he cannot give them a fair and impartial trial. Judge Peak read the affidavits, then announced that he would not vacate the bench.

There Are Others, But Not One Printer.

The Ohio Penitentiary News, for many years a famous and flourishing daily paper published by convicts, has suspended publication, for the very good reason that there is not left in that big penal institution a single one who can handle type, says the Cincinnati Post. There is not a printer in the Ohio Penitentiary.

Bankers are there in plenty. More than 20 are there, and more are on the way. Several convict banks might be operated, with men to spare.

Enough lawyers are there to take care of an enormous amount of legal business.

Doctors, brokers and other "eminently respectable" citizens are not lacking.

Business men, farmers, mechanics and representatives of almost every department of industry activity are common there.

But there is not one printer.

The fact throws new light on character that has long been commonly misjudged.

The printer today is a home-owner. He is of fixed employment and is the head of a family.

He is and always was—far above the average man in information and intelligence. All the notable events of human life pass through his hands and make impress on his brain.

The fact that more than 20 bankers are in the Ohio penitentiary, and not one printer, tells of the relative honesty of the printer today and tells more.

It tells us that the most common and most dangerous crimes of today are being committed not by the world's workers.

A Real Heroine.

To the heroic fortitude of the captain's wife, Mrs. Frank McGuire, who stood lashed to the wheel during the severe gale that swept the New England coast from Sunday, November 11, to the following Wednesday, is due largely the safety of the schooner Goldhunter of Blue Hills, Me., which worked her way into that harbor yesterday, eleven days overdue from Portland. The little vessel showed plainly the marks of the storm. Her deck was swept clean and her sails were in tatters, but the hull withstood the terrific pounding it received.

What the South Can Duplicate.

Each setting sun sees the South richer by over $3,000,000 in actual wealth, but even this is not more important than the accumulation of experience in the utilization of our resources which is now in progress and the awakening of the entire country to the fact that in the South is to center the mightiest industrial commercial force from the world. This section can duplicate the coal and iron and steel industry of the North and West; it can duplicate the lumber and wood working interests of the entire country; it can duplicate the oil trade of America, if not the world's; it can produce all the rice needed in America, nearly all the tobacco and much of the sugar; it can duplicate all the citrus fruit and trucking industry, it can double its present cereal crop of 800,000,000 bushels, double and quadruple its cotton crop, duplicate through its great rivers and splendid harbors the coastwise and foreign trade of the country. It can and will do all these things and even then not reach the limit of its development.—Baltimore Manufacturers Record.

Our Washington Letter.

BY EARL W. MAYO.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—President Roosevelt's order dismissing in disgrace the three negro companies of the Twenty-fifth Infantry has done more to inflame race feeling than anything else that has happened in the last quarter century. From all over the country protests have poured in on the War Department, and excitement among the negroes was brought forcibly to the attention of the administration by a mass meeting here, in the course of which the President of the United States was denounced bitterly and the 2,000 negroes refused to sing the national hymn when called upon by the chairman, greeting the request with a storm of hisses. In the course of the meeting Dr. Walter Brooks, a negro physician, announced that it was decided to call upon the 10,000 negro ministers throughout the country to urge from the pulpit a boycott on the army by all negroes. Calvin W. Chase, a negro attorney, declared that President Roosevelt was and always has been an enemy to the race. In support of his statement he read what purported to be a receipt signed by Mrs. Bullock, grandmother of the President, for the sum of $500 paid as purchase money for a young woman slave, one of the Bullock family servants.

"That woman was sold," declared Chase, "to raise money to buy the trousseau for President Roosevelt's mother. It need be no wonder that the President is against the black man."

Setting aside the wisdom or justice of the President's order, there is little sense in all this hysterical criticism. No one who knows the President doubts for a moment that he would have taken precisely the same action had the soldiers been white troopers.

Millersburg Ladies Victims of Pickpocket.

Mrs. Sallie Judy, of Millersburg, and daughter, Mrs. Lucile Creighton, of Indianapolis, were in Cincinnati Monday shopping, and when passing an alley while enroute to Grand Central depot had their handbags grabbed by a pickpocket, who escaped through the alley. The bags contained $75 in cash, a number of silver spoons and other valuable packages. Mrs. Creighton was carrying both bags, and the thief grabbed with such force that the handles on the bags were pulled off. The lady ran after him through the alley to the next street, but eluded them before a policeman could be found. Moral, do your shopping with home merchants.

Announcement.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Mr. James Duncan Chambers and Miss Ione Macneal, both of Cincinnati. The wedding is to take place in December. Mr. Chambers is the son of Mrs. Kate Chambers, of this city, and is now a rising young attorney of Cincinnati. Miss Macneal is a handsome and charming young lady of the Queen City.

Elks' Memorial Services.

The annual memorial services of Paris Elks' Lodge, No. 373, will be held at the Christian Church in this city next Sunday evening, at 7:30 o'clock. All members of the Lodge are requested to meet at the lodge room at 6:30 sharp. The memorial address will be delivered by Mr. J. L. Earlywine, of this city. For rhetorical eloquence and brilliant oratory few young men in the South can equal Mr. Earlywine, and it is safe to say that his effort on this occasion, which appeals so strongly to all, will be unusually fine.

Bourbon Circuit Court.

Circuit Court re-convened Tuesday morning with Judge Stout presiding. After motion hour the petit jurors were impaneled and of the thirty summoned the following were excused:

Thomas Wadell, E. F. Clay, Jr., Charles Coff, W. O. Shropshire, Jesse Booth, J. T. Judy and R. L. Collins.

In conformity to a recent act of the Legislature Judge Stout then drew from the jury wheel the following names to supply the vacancies: R. H. Biddle, Wm. Cantrill, H. W. Purdy, Lee Cravens, John Leach, B. F. White, W. W. Haley and A. C. Clark. Those retained from the original list are as follows: Brutus J. Clay, John S. Talbott, Jr., J. A. Skillman, Charles May, Wm. Hinton, Jr., John J. Brown, C. C. Clark, J. B. Cunningham, W. S. Jones, Leslie Wheeler, J. W. Young, Ed. Turney, R. P. Hopkins, J. Elmer Boardman, Berry Bedford, Jr., George W. Estis, Sam Houston and Clay Allen. George W. Batterton was sworn in as an attorney. Mr. Batterton is a son of Alfred Batterton, of this county, and is a graduate of the law school of Center College, at Danville, Ky. Mr. Batterton read law in the office of Mr. E. M. Dickson and is regarded as having a brilliant future for one entering the profession so young, being only 21 years of age. Mr. Batterton expects to locate in Paris and will probably have an office in the Elks' Building.

Pending the summoning of the new jurors Judge Stout called the Commonwealth's docket and they entered upon the trial of John English, charged with shooting with intent to kill Ed. Myers. The jury brought in a verdict of acquittal and English was released.

M. L. Woods, under indictment for suffering a crap game on his premises in connection with a saloon, was tried and found guilty and fined $500 and his license revoked.

But little business was transacted in Circuit Court Wednesday. The Paris Electric Light Company, which was tried at the June term of court on an indictment charging a public nuisance, the jury being unable to agree, came into court with a plea of guilty and were assessed a fine of $50 and costs.

C. A. Cremin and P. H. Woodson, who were convicted in the County Court on a charge of a breach of the peace and each fined $100 and costs, and who appealed their cases to the Circuit Court, pleaded guilty and were each fined $50 and costs.

The cases against Newt. Current, charged with gaming and that of D. G. Taylor for assault and battery, were continued till this morning.

The grand jury filed into open court and made a partial report. Among the indictments returned were the following: Julian Throckmorton, murder; Will Coleman, murder; Sam Fox, murder; same, willful and malicious shooting with intent to kill without killing; Charles Penn, same charge; same, carrying concealed weapons; J. J. Walsh selling soft drinks without license; Will Smith, false swearing; same gaming.

Court adjourned till this morning at 9 o'clock.

Judge Stout went to Lexington, where he will celebrate Thanksgiving by hearing a continuation of the arguments in the injunction proceedings of the Mutual Life Insurance Company against State Insurance Commissioner Prewitt.

Commonwealth's Attorney Robt. B. Franklin returned to Frankfort to eat turkey.

Marriage Licenses.

County Clerk Pearce Paton issued the following marriage licenses yesterday: Mr. Matthew Evans and Miss Maime Allison, both of this county.

Mr. Wm. Cooper, of Kanass City, and Miss Annie Neal, of Jackson, Ky. The latter couple were married in the Court House by Squire Fletcher Mann.

Outlaw's Son Believes in the Law.

Jesse James, Jr., son of the outlaw, who is now a lawyer, appeared in court at Kansas City yesterday to prosecute his brother-in-law for taking his horse without permission and misusing it. He urged a fine, saying he believed in law enforcement, and the Judge complied.

"My Dixie Girl."

The beautiful Southern drama "My Dixie Girl" will be the attraction at the Paris Grand on Monday night. As the title indicates, it is a play of the South and not only appeals to theatre-goers below the Mason & Dixon line, but, to those in every walk of life in every part of the country. It is a play redolent of the delicious Southern atmosphere and of the chivalry and hospitality that has always characterized the inhabitants of this part of the country; a play that touches the heart strings, that causes the milk of human kindness to flow freely through the veins. It is a play full of action, of love and adventure, of wit and humor, with a background of beautiful stage pictures. It will be presented by a company of well-known players. The advance sale of seats opens this morning at Oberdorfer's.

They Stand Alone.

Standing out in bold relief, all alone, and as a conspicuous example of open, frank and honest dealing with the sick and afflicted, are Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, over-worked, debilitated, nervous, "run-down," pain-racked women, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous remedy for weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness, all catarrhal affections whether of the stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, nasal passages, throat, bronchia, or other mucous passages, also as an effective remedy for all diseases arising from thin, watery or impure blood, as scrofulous and skin affections.

Each bottle of the above medicines bears upon its wrapper a badge of honesty in the full list of ingredients composing it—printed in plain English. This frank and open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves, and is the best guaranty of their merits. They cannot be classed as patent nor secret medicines for they are neither—being of known composition.

Dr. Pierce feels that he can afford to take the afflicted into his full confidence and lay all the ingredients of his medicines freely before them because these ingredients are such as are endorsed and most strongly praised by scores of the most eminent medical writers as cures for the diseases for which these medicines are recommended. Therefore, the afflicted do not have to rely alone upon Dr. Pierce's recommendation as to the curative value of his medicines for certain easily recognized diseases.

A glance at the printed formula on each bottle will show that no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines, they being wholly compounded of glyceric extracts of the roots of native American forest plants. These are best and safest for the cure of most lingering, chronic diseases. Dr. R. V. Pierce can be consulted FREE, by addressing him at Buffalo, N. Y., and all communications are regarded as sacredly confidential.

It is as easy to be well as ill—and much more comfortable. Constipation is the cause of many forms of illness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two a mild cathartic. All dealers in medicines sell them.

Postmaster Robbed.

G. W. Fouts, postmaster of Riverton, Ia., nearly lost his life and was robbed of all comfort, according to his letter, which says: "For 20 years I had chronic liver complaint, which led to such a severe case of jaundice that even my finger nails turned yellow; when my doctor prescribed Electric Bitters, which cured me and have kept me well for eleven years." Sure cure for biliousness, neuralgia, weakness and all stomach, liver kidney and bladder derangements. A wonderful tonic. At Oberdorfer's drug store. 50c cents. nov

Fortunate Missourians.

"When I was a druggist at Livonia, Mo.," writes T. J. Dwyer, now of Graysville, Mo., "three of my customers were permanently cured of consumption by Dr. King's New Discovery, and are well and strong today. One, who was trying to sell his property and move to Arizona, but after using New Discovery a short time he found it unnecessary to do so. I regard Dr. King's New Discovery as the most wonderful medicine in existence." Surest cough and cold cure and throat and lung healer. Guaranteed by Oberdorfer, the druggist. 50c and 1.00. Trial bottle free. nov

Free Reclining Chair Cars.

The Southern Railway has inaugurated free reclining chair car service between Louisville and Evansville on their fast through trains leaving Louisville at 7:30 a. m. and 5 p. m. daily, and running solid to Evansville, without change. This line also operates free reclining chair cars on night Lexington and Danville to St. Louis, also Pullman Sleeper through from Danville to St. Louis. The Southern Railway is 23 miles the shortest from Louisville to Nashville and forty-three miles the shortest to St. Louis. tf

Easy Going Dutch Spelling.

In the good old days when the Dutch were supreme in the administration of the affairs of New Amsterdam everybody knew everybody else, and it mattered little how proper names were spelled. Modern lawyers and civil service reformers would be shocked at the orthographical freedom of the clerks of the burgomaster's court of those times. Here is a sample case taken from the old Dutch records in which the name of a plaintiff is spelled five different ways:

In a case before the court in 1655 Jan "Hackins" is a complainant against the inspector of tobacco, who has certified to Jan "Hockins" that the tobacco was good. The inspector says in his defense that he inspected the tobacco at the request of Jan "Haeckins" on June 26, and aforesaid "Hagins" kept the barrel of tobacco until the 30th without finding out that it was bad. Then Jan "Hakins" has something else to say in the case.

The Battle of Life.

No man lives without jostling and being jostled. In all ways he has to elbow himself through the world, giving and taking offense. His life is a battle in so far as it is an entity at all. —Carlyle.

Dangers of Defective Plumbing!

Defective plumbing permits the entrance into the house of sewer gas bearing germs of contagious disease to which the human system readily succumbs. Sewer gas is not necessarily generated in the sewer, but is frequently created in the plumbing system within the home and enters the apartments through defective fixtures. If in doubt consult us regarding the piping and repairing defective fixtures with "STANDARD" Porcelain Enamelled Ware, acknowledged as the best sanitary equipment.

Daisy's Trunk

By GEORGE STAIR

Copyright, 1906, by Homer Sprague

"You should have sent your trunk out in the train ahead," said Compton. "Just now there is a press of baggage, and you cannot get your trunk out in time to get the other train."

"But I must," insisted Daisy, with pretty imperiousness. "If I lose that train the yacht will have left and I shall miss the trip. She will be sent south next month, and I shall not have another chance."

"I'll see what I can do," he volunteered. "But I am afraid that it looks very much like a hopeless case."

"You can do it," said Daisy confidently as she settled back in her seat with the air of one who dismisses discussion. Somehow Compton gave one confidence in his powers of accomplishment. Ever since she had been a child she had let him do things for her. He had always seemed a handy man, and precisely because he was so handy he had urged his suit on her in vain.

Just now Dick Tomlin was the favored suitor. Dick was to meet her at the station and take her over to the other railroad, where she would connect with the train for the shore where her brother was waiting for her on his yacht.

In spite of her liking for Tomlin she was glad when Frank Compton's form loomed up in the aisle of the car. Dick was not a good manager. With Frank along she knew that her trunk would be assured.

Compton sank into the seat beside her. "I suppose there is some favored swain waiting for you," he suggested. Daisy blushed.

"Dick Tomlin said he might be there," she admitted. Compton smiled.

"If he said that he might be there, be assured that he will," he said gravely. "Will he be the one, Daisy?"

"You are always thinking about my getting married," she pouted. "I don't see why we can't just be good friends, Frank."

"LET ME HAVE YOUR CHECK," HE SAID QUIETLY.

"Because I want to be something better than good friends," he explained. "I want you for my wife and you merely laugh at the idea."

"I've known you ages," she explained. "You seem more like a big brother."

"So a newcomer wins the prize," he sighed. "Please don't speak about it," pleaded Daisy. "You know I hate to hurt you."

Compton settled back in his seat with a sigh. That was the explanation of it all. Daisy had known him all her life. It was the new face that won her attention. There was no hope for him. The train was pulling into the station before he roused himself.

"Let me have your check," he said quietly. "Tomlin will look after you. I will try to get the trunk."

She gave him a grateful look as she handed him the square of brass. "You're an awful comfort, Frank," she said softly. "I'm sorry I can't—can't—"

"It's all right," he said, as he gathered up her belongings. "Tell Tomlin to get a hansom and send the driver after me. I'll have the trunk for him."

He helped her down the steps and, after seeing that Tomlin was there, went in search of the trunk. Trunk after trunk was run down the platform, and at last he recognized the little steamer trunk with its big red D.

Quickly he explained to the helper the necessity for having the trunk immediately, but the baggage handlers were tired and cross and not disposed to extend any favors.

"Can't do it," he said sharply. "The trunks have got to be checked up before they can go out. That will take half an hour."

Compton passed the man a bill. "Suppose you transfer the check to me," he said. "You can check me up instead of the trunk. Then if there's any trouble you have me to answer for it."

For a moment the man stood still as the idea sank in; then, with a laugh, he jerked off the trunk, slipped off the strap and fastened it to Compton's arm. The cabman stepped up to should-der the baggage, and the helper grinned.

"Jump up there with the rest of the trunks until I can run you into the room," he laughed.

Compton fell in with the joke and took his place on top of the pile of luggage.

For the next half hour he was compelled to sit in the stuffy room until the baggage-master found time to attend to him. Then the two checks were verified, the tag was taken from his arm, and he was permitted to go.

Three weeks later he ran into Daisy on the street. "How is my trunk?" she asked, with a smile.

"You got it, I hope?" he said quickly. "I mean my substitute trunk," she explained. "The Potters told me about it. It seems that they saw you make the exchange."

"It was the only way to avoid a delay," he said. "That accounts for my not coming to say goodbye."

"You are a dear old fellow," she said softly. "When I heard the story from the Potters and remembered how Dick complained because you were on the train with me I saw the difference between you two and—"

"And?" he questioned. "The contrast was in your favor," she said hurriedly. "Frank, if you want to ask a certain question again I think that perhaps—"

"Here is the jeweler's," suggested Compton. "Let's get the ring."

"I want one with a seal like a trunk check," she said as she followed. "I planned it all out on the boat."

"Bless the trunk check," said Compton fervently.

Still First in All Hearts.

Teachers and pupils of a high school in New Jersey were amazed one morning when the principal suddenly ordered all the classes to assemble in the auditorium. Their amazement increased, says a writer in the New York Press, when he began to address them on "George Washington, the Father of Our Country."

When the principal finished his remarks he paused impressively for a moment and then went on in his severest tone:

"The bust of George Washington which stood upon the pedestal in the reception room has been removed and placed upon the floor, with its face in the corner. Until the culprit, whoever he or she may be, comes to the front and makes a public confession of the misdemeanor not a soul will be permitted to leave this building. Remember, there will be no other punishment imposed than the open and public confession."

There was a great sensation. Teachers exchanged glances; pupils fidgeted round, awed and frightened. The principal, holding himself very erect, faced them solemnly.

"I am waiting," said he. Then the janitor stepped forward and relieved the situation.

"It's up to me," he said. "The roof was leakin' mighty bad, an' the boost of Mr. Washin'ton were in the drip, an' I t'ought it proper to move it to keep the rain from sp'illin' it, an' I meant no insult by turnin' his face to the wall, sir."

"The school is dismissed," said the principal.

A Grateful Town.

A man who had been born and reared in a small town in the interior went to one of the large cities, engaged in business and accumulated a fortune. After a lapse of twenty-five years he made a visit to his native village. Desiring to do something for the place, he rented a vacant building on the principal street for a long term of years and telegraphed an order for a first class chemical engine and other appurtenances.

Having previously secured the promise of the village trustees that a volunteer fire department would be organized at once, he had the satisfaction of seeing the engine installed in the building before he went away.

A few days after his return to the city a friend in the little town sent him a copy of the local paper. It contained a full account of his philanthropic action and expressed the gratitude of the citizens for his liberality, but wound up thus:

"There is a general feeling, however, that with his vast wealth it wouldn't have hurt him a bit if he had given us instead a system of waterworks and a regular steam fire engine, with a span of bay horses and a paid fire department. Then we could have crowded over every town in the county. As it is, we are merely on a par with Pilgrimville and Kohankus, and if we go to putting on airs they'll give us the laugh."

Inquire and Enquire.

"While you are on the subject of spelling," says a correspondent, "can you kindly explain why business men persist in writing 'enquire' and 'enquiry' for 'inquire' and 'inquiry'? The word is pronounced 'in' and 'in' clearly expresses the meaning."

The explanation, we think, must be that business men are too much given to the study of the elder classics of our language. In the romance of "Gerydes," for example, the business man reads that:

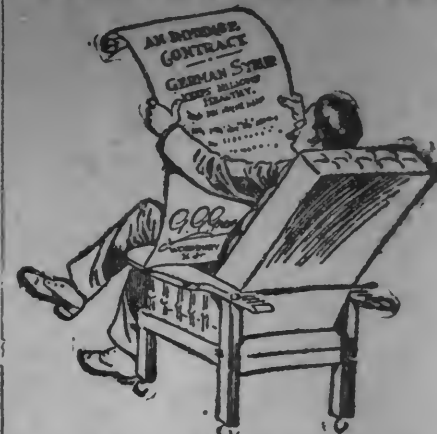

Of every man he enquired the certents
Whiche of his men were ded and whiche were taken.

And they have noted that Child's text of "The Bailiff's Daughter of Islington" says that:

To faire London she would go
Her true love to enquire.

Congreve spells it with an "e," but Milton with an "i." Spenser spelled it with an "i," but the translators of the "Authorized Version" spelled it with an "e." So the honors are perhaps easy as regards the classics. But there is no doubt that the "i" has it all its own way in the practice of modern writers of repute.—London News.

STRANGE ADVICE!

Dr. G. G. Green gives alert personal attention to his great humanitarian contract.

In our Almanac for many years past we have given unusual advice to those afflicted with coughs, colds, throat or lung troubles or consumption. We have told them if they did not receive any special benefit after the use of one 75-cent size bottle of German Syrup, to consult their doctor. We did not ask them or urge them to use a large number of bottles, as is the case in the advertising of many other remedies. Our confidence in German Syrup makes it possible for us to give such advice. We know by the experience of over 35 years that one 75-cent bottle of German Syrup will speedily relieve or cure the worst coughs, colds, bronchial or lung troubles—and that, even in bad cases of consumption, one large bottle of German Syrup will work wonders. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.

If the cod fish became extinct it would be a world-wide calamity, because the oil that comes from its liver surpasses all other fats in nourishing and life-giving properties. Thirty years ago the proprietors of Scott's Emulsion found a way of preparing cod liver oil so that everyone can take it and get the full value of the oil without the objectionable taste. Scott's Emulsion is the best thing in the world for weak, backward children, thin, delicate people, and all conditions of wasting and lost strength.

LEGEND OF THE TOPAZ.

Why the Jewel Is Called the Stone of Gratitude.

The topaz is called the stone of gratitude, and the old Roman books record the following legend, from which the stone derives this attribute:

The blind Emperor Theodosius used to hang a brazen gong before his palace gates and sit beside it on certain days, hearing and putting to rights the grievances of any of his subjects. Those who wished for his advice and help had but to sound the gong, and immediately admission into the presence of Caesar was obtained. One day a great snake crept up to the gate and struck the brazen gong with her coils, and Theodosius gave orders that no one should molest the creature and bade her tell him of her wish.

The snake bent her crest lowly in homage and straightway told the following tale:

Her nest was at the base of the gateway tower, and while she had gone to find food for her young brood a strange beast, covered with sharp needles, had invaded her home, killed the nestlings and now held possession of the little dwelling. Would Caesar grant her justice?

The emperor gave orders for the porcupine to be slain and the mother to be restored to her desolate nest. Night fell, and the sleeping world had forgotten the emperor's kindly deed, but with the early dawn a great serpent glided into the palace, up the steps and into the royal chamber and laid upon each of the emperor's closed eyelids a gleaming topaz.

When the Emperor Theodosius awoke he was no longer blind, for the mother snake had paid her debt of gratitude.

PASSPORTS IN FRANCE.

The Kind That Were Issued in the Time of Louis XVI.

The mysterious cards of the Count de Vergennes each contained a brief history in cipher of those to whom they were given. De Vergennes was Louis XVI's minister of foreign affairs, and when strangers of a suspicious character were about to enter France he issued to them these strange cards, which acted as passports, and were also intended to give information concerning the bearer without his knowledge.

In the first place, its color indicated the nationality of the man who carried it. The person's age, approximately, was told by the shape of the card. A fillet around the border of the card told whether he was a bachelor, married or a widower. Dots gave information as to his position and fortune, and the expression of his face was shown by a decorative flower.

The stranger's religion was told by the punctuation after his name. If he was a Catholic it was a period, if a Jew a dash, if he was a Lutheran a semicolon and no stop at all indicated him a nonbeliever.

So a man's morals, character and appearance were pointed out by the pattern of his passport, and the authorities could tell at a glance whether he was a gamester or a preacher, a physician or a lawyer, and whether he was to be put under surveillance or allowed to go free.—Sunday Magazine.

Materialistic Man.

Sir James Crichton-Browne, the English physician, speaking before some members of his profession, protested against the tendency to adopt too materialistic an explanation of man. The raw material of a medical practice became a mere contrivance of matter and force; the brain of this poor consumer of pills and poisons a "glue-like substance, nine-tenths water, with a little phosphorus thrown in." "They left us man," said Sir James, with a smashing figure, "a motor car, self made and self started, with no passengers and no chauffeur, moved by a series of explosions or redistributions of energy, and rushing on to inevitable destruction."

A Prayer.

Send some one, Lord, to love the best that is in me and to accept nothing less from me, to touch me with the searching tenderness of the passion for the ideal, to demand everything from me for my own sake, to give me so much that I cannot think of myself and to ask so much that I can keep nothing back, to console me by making me strong before sorrow comes, to help me so to live that while I part with many things by the way I lose nothing of the gift of life.—Hamilton W. Marble.

Maude Was Willing.

A strict housewife said to a new maid, "I forgot to tell you, Maude, that if you break anything I'll have to take it out of your wages."

But Maude, whom two days had heartily sickened of her berth, replied, with a merry laugh: "Do it, ma'am; do it. I've just broke the hundred dollar vase in the parlor, and if you can take that out of $4—for I'm leavin' at the end of the week—why, you'll be mighty clever."—Argonaut.

THE COLD WATER ORDEAL.

It Was Once an Important Test of Guilt or Innocence.

The cold water ordeal was one of the most important tests of guilt or innocence a few hundred years ago. If the accused floated, he was guilty; if he sank, he was innocent. In the twelfth century some altar vessels were stolen from the cathedral of Laon, and the learned Anselm proposed that a child from each parish should be put to the test and so on until the guilty one was found. The proposition raised a great outcry, and the people clamored that those who had easiest access to the church be the first to undergo the ordeal.

This looked reasonable enough. So the bishop ordered the six priests of the cathedral to prepare for the test. In the meanwhile Anselm thought to try the experiment himself as a preliminary test. So he was bound and placed in a tub of water. To his great satisfaction as well as discomfort he promptly sank. The day arrived and with it an immense crowd to see the trial. The first priest sank, the second floated, the third sank, the fourth floated, the fifth sank, and then Anselm himself—wonder of wonders—in spite of experiments and protested innocence floated around with the buoyancy of an air bubble. While he was serving his sentence in prison Anselm found time to write a learned treatise on the "Inexpediency of the Water Ordeal and Its Failure in Many Cases."

New Zealand Mocking Birds.

The Poe honey eater is one of the commonest and at the same time handsomest of the New Zealand birds. The neck is ornamented with a frill of curly feathers of a greenish color with white centers, and the throat is adorned with a tuft of white feathers, which has gained for it the popular name of "parson bird," an appellation appropriate not only because of this decoration, but because of the resemblance of its peculiar attitudes when singing to the gesticulations indulged in by exuberant lecturers when wishing to drive home their points. The bird is an excellent mimic and can be taught to repeat short sentences with extraordinary clearness and also to whistle short songs quite as well as a parrot.

Queen Bess' Giant.

Queen Elizabeth had a Flemish porter who was over eight feet high and of great strength, and he was an extremely good natured man. Whenever he met any one who was abnormally tall he used to patronize him in a friendly sort of way, and on one occasion when he met at an inn two soldiers who were over six feet in height he said, "Come under my arms, my little fellows." And, taking them up, he walked down the room with them under his arms as if they had been children, much to their disgust.

Willing to Oblige.

Uncle (to little Bertie, aged five, who is being taken off to bed)—Good night, Bertie. Of course you always remember your aunts and uncles in your prayers? Bertie—Oh, yes, Uncle Felix! Shall I tell you what I say? I say, "God bless Auntie Kitty and make her thin, and God bless Uncle James and make him fat, and God bless Uncle Felix and"—which do you want to be, fat or thin?—Punch.

A Fast Train.

"Is this a fast train?" asked a passenger who was tired of looking at a station at which the train was not supposed to stop.

"Of course it is," was the conductor's reply.

"I thought so. Would you mind my getting out to see what it's fast to?"

Always the Same.

Tailor's Little Boy (walking with his father, sees a street roller)—What's that, papa? Tailor—The street's being newly ironed and pressed.—Figaro.

"Some men can take new furniture and make it look as if it was made a century ago," says a journalist. So can some children.

THE FIRST DIRECTORY.

Ancient Olden Time New York Business and Social Addresses.

In the first directory of New York City, which was issued in 1786, there are some peculiar and quaint entries. For instance, in those days it was not uncommon for medical practitioners to sell drugs, as is shown by the following address, "Samuel Bredhurst, physician and apothecary, 64 Queen (now Pearl) street."

Clergymen of that period were exceedingly precise regarding their titles. Thus, "Abraham Baché, reverend of the Church of England, 29 Smith street," and "Joze Phelan, clergyman of the Church of Rome, 1 Beekman street."

Leon Rogers, tailor, of 5 Broadway, was described as a "breeches maker;" John Bean, 60 Broadway, as "surgeon and tooth puller;" S. Cryzier, 69 Cherry street, "punch and porter house;" Jo Deleplane of 132 Queen street, "Quaker speaker;" D. Hitchcock, 80 Queen street, "house carpenter and undertaker;" John Hogland, 95 Queen street, "fiddler, etc.;" Henry H. Kip, 25 King street, "inspector of pot and pearl ashes;" John Nitchie, 7 Garden street, "starch and hair powder maker;" Samuel B. Webb, 29 Lower Dock street, "gentleman."

In those days, too, there were a great many "gentlewomen" and a few "wash-women." All teachers were then addressed either as "schoolmasters" or "schoolmistresses." The retail dealers on Broadway and Wall and Queen streets called themselves "shopkeepers," the hotel men were "tavern keepers," and the policemen were "watchmen."—New York Post.

ODD COURTS MARTIAL.

Solemn Farces That Have Been Enacted in the British Navy.

It is a rule in the British navy that when a ship is cast away or otherwise lost a court martial must sit in order to apportion the blame. Sometimes these courts really try and condemn those that are held to be responsible. At other times their duties are, from the very nature of the catastrophe, more or less nominal.

Thus, when the Serpent was lost off the Spanish coast, a court martial assembled and solemnly "tried" three ordinary bluejackets, the sole survivors, although they of course had no more to do with the error in navigation which led up to the catastrophe than the man in the moon.

A similar solemn farce was enacted after the loss of the Captain in the Bay of Biscay, when 483 officers and men lost their lives. In this case a gunner named James May, one of the eighteen who escaped from the wreck, was the nominal "culprit." The verdict was that the loss of the ship was due to instability and faulty construction. This really amounted to a vote of censure on Mr. Cowper Coles, the designer, but as he went down with the ungainly monster he had created he was beyond the reach of either blame or praise.

On another occasion a small "middy" of thirteen years of age was put upon his trial, and once, it is said, a court martial assembled on a cat, which chanced to be the sole living thing found aboard a derelict frigate.

The Other One.

"What is the meaning of 'alter ego'?" asked the teacher of the beginners' class in Latin.

"The other I," said the boy with the curly hair.

"Give a sentence containing the phrase."

"He winked his other I."

Long Sighted.

President of Southern Railroad Killed.

President Samuel Spencer, of the Southern Railway System, who was enroute to the South, was killed yesterday morning in a rear-end collision at Lynchburg, Va. The private car in which he was riding was struck and split open by the colliding locomotive, and immediately caught fire, and the body of Mr. Spencer was burned almost beyond recognition. In the car with him were Philip Schuler, of New York; Mr. Spencer's private secretary, Merrill, and his private dispatcher, D. W. Davis, of Alexandria, Va. Operator Davis was crushed and died in fifteen minutes. Mr. Schuler was instantly killed, but his body was not badly burned before it was rescued by passengers. Engineer C. Perry, who was on the rear train, was killed.
